It was the first time the AACI has ever honored a state game commission director with such an award.

Time vs. Moore in title bout

By BILL McCORMICK
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Archie Moore is armed with a potent punch and a lifetime accumulation of boxing guile for his 15-round defense of the light-heavy-weight championship at Madison Square Garden June 10.

The ancient one, who has enjoyed the longest Indian Summer since Methuselah, will be opposed by Father Time and a hustling Italian named Giulio Rinaldi who has, in Archie's words, "an overabundance of energy."

The nationally televised engagement will be Moore's 213th fight, Rinaldi's 31st.

The 26-year-old Rinaldi, who was one when Moore had his first professional fight, won a 10-round decision from the champion in a non-title bout in Rome last October. He had Moore in such distress the referee forced him to take an eight count standing up in the final round. Moore claims the unusual treatment was uncalled for and that he was entitled to no worse than a draw.

Moore admits 44, but his mother says he is 47. Major speculation centers on his ability to beat the calendar. At the moment he is in the finest fettle he has achieved in six years, but old geezers of his ilk can crumble like the Walls of Jericho and he may lose his reflexes and timing at any second.

Moore began preparing for the title defense by whipping Buddy Turman, a Texas heavy-weight in Manila last March. At 206 pounds the champion was so globular rumors were circulated that the government was going to put an astronaut into orbit around him as a prelude to the outer space project.

From Manila, Moore went into heavy training at the camp he calls The Salt Mine, near San Diego He wound up at Kutsher's, a Catskills resort, where he surprised everybody but himself by weighing in just four pounds above the 175-pound limit two weeks before the fight.

Rinaldi went into early training at Villaggio Italian, another rustic retreat in the Catskills.

An accomplished spaghetti bender, he gave up starches and cut his daily intake to two double sirloins, a ton of vegetables and a gallon of orange juice Guilio's weight fell lower than his manager-trainer Luigi Proletti liked, so he went back to his customary diet of pasta and spumoni and moved to an apartment above Leone's Restaurant in New York and worked out next door to be near the source of supply

This handicapper believes that if Archie Moore is himself — and who else could he be at his age? —and doesn't disintegrate like the Wonderful One-Hoss Shay, he will knock out Guilio Rinaldi within five rounds.

If not, he can live on his social security

Juniors still busy with games

The team still plans to travel to Hamburg Wednesday and to continue play in the Syracuse tournament Thursday night against Omaha Holy Name at 6 p.m If the Juniors win the Holy Name game, they will wind up in the finale Friday night for the championship

Union votes to use park ground

UNION — (N-P) — Voters decided 108 to 35 at a special election Tuesday to permit the city park to be used as the site for a new post office.

The ground had been given to the town by the late W. B. Banning, with a reversionary clause stating if it ceased to be used as a park it would go back to the family.

Recently Mr and Mrs Hollis Banning decided to permit the park to be used as site for the public building. Tuesday the voters ratified their decision.

Mrs Hollis Banning, the postmaster, said it will probably be sbme time before a new building is erected. It will be built privately and leased to the government

The decision to let the park be used involved payment of $500 to the Banning family and $2,100 to the town for the lots to be used for the post office.

Confessed killer gets death penalty

GLENWOOD, Iowa (UPI)—Confessed killer Charles Edwin Kelley, was sentenced to death on the Iowa gallows today for first degree murder.

Kelley, a Minneapolis parking lot attendant, broke into sobs as District Judge LeRoy Johnson quietly pronounced the sentence.

The youth's face was deeply flushed and he was weeping as sheriff's officers buckled on a heavy leather belt and handcuffs to return him across the street to the Mills County Jail. He was almost unable to control his right leg which shook violently as he stood before Johnson to here the sentence

Johnson, in pronouncing the sentence, said ho had fully invesigated and considered very carefully all the evidence brought out in the trial of Kelley for the Feb 22 murder of Alvin E Koehrsen, 54, Walnut, Iowa.

Judge Spoke Softly

"I now find that the defendant, Charles Edwin Kelley, is guilty of first degree murder," the judge said "It is now the judgement and sentence of this court that the defendant be taken by the sheriff to the State Penitentiary at Port Madison and be confined there until the 18th day of July, 1962 when between the hours of sunrise and sunset, he will be hanged by the neck until dead."

Court - appointed defenue attorney Robert C Heithoff said an appeal would be possible on the grounds that the sentence was excessive, but he said no decision had yet been made.

Correction: Our family has one summer sheared cocker spaniel, one wing clipped parakeet, four water loving turtles and one Shetland pony, thanks to the Nebraska City Saddle club Now, if I can talk my daughters, mind you, not sons, out of one of their pets since the new hoss addition, it will be a miracle

Just to show you how far ahead kids think, my four and a half year old daughter, Clarissa, has it all figured out how we can house the pony a few nights in our garage and a few nights in the garage of Ricky Larson, son of Mr and Mrs Ken Larson When we got the turtles, I tried the dear old dad stuff about taking care of them and asked her what she would feed them She replied, "turtle food " The whole problem must be that my daughters go to bed earlier than I do.

Course, I don't have it near as rough as Glen Cohn, Ken Larson and Frank Batallion. I may not know anything about model airplanes, cap guns and Jet Jackson but I can tell you all about Barbie dolls, can cans and be-bop socks.

From Dave McDaniel Said Joan of Arc as she looked at her bonds and the fire around her: "I'm smoking more than usual, but I'm enjoying it less." Of course you know they are changing the name of the Untouchables .. to the Italian Hour.

No backing down an inch by Soviet

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American people today had a somber warning from President Kennedy that the expensive arms race with Russia can be expected to continue barring an unexpected change in the basic policies of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

This was the core of Kennedy's report to the nation on his weekend conversations with Khrushchev in Vienna, as well as with President Charles de Gaulle in Paris and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in London. Hours after flying back from Europe, the Chief Executive went on radio and television Tuesday night to review his mission with candor rarely employed in the world of diplomacy

He said his meeting with Khrushchev was useful in opening channels of communications, but "no advantage or concession was either gained or given," and "no spectacular progress was either achieved or pretended."

Ray Of Light

While the President saw a ray of light in Khrushchev's attitude toward Laos, he found the Russian leader rock-solid in his demand for Soviet veto power over enforcement of any nuclear test ban.

Kennedy said that across the conference table in Vienna last Saturday and Sunday, Khrushchev struck "a serious blow" at "our hopes for an end to nuclear tests, for an end to the spread of nuclear weapons, and for some slowing down of the arms race "

Khrushchev, according to Kennedy, also was unrelenting in his position on Berlin and Germany In fact, Kennedy regarded the discussion of Berlin as the "most somber" phase of his conversations with the Soviet premier

As the President spoke, U.S. experts studied a massive memorandum slapped down on the Vienna conference table by Khrushchev and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko The document, known to diplomats as an aide memoire, stated the Soviet position on Berlin in detail. It was drafted in such a way as to require an American answer which will be forthcoming only after careful, extensive study

The President said simply that Khrushchev's presentation on Germany and Berlin was made in detail and would be "the subject of further communications."

Plan No Future Meetings

One current and unofficial version was that Khrushchev said in the memorandum the present Berlin situation would have to be resolved to Soviet satisfaction by the end of this year

State farmers give big support

LINCOLN (UPI) — The 1961 emergency feed grains program has received the strongest participation ever for a farm program in Nebraska, according to records in the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation ASC office

The wide acceptance of the emergency feed grain program put it ahead of the corn-hog programs of the 1930's, long billed as the most widely accepted programs by farmers

Seventy-two per cent of Nebraska farmers signed up for the program this year

Records of the 1934 corn - hog program showed farmers contracting 1,860 000 acres of a total 10,500,000 base corn acreage for an 18 per cent participation in the program

A slight boost to the signup was shown in 1935 when the corn-hog program attracted a 19 per cent diversion in acreage as 1,986,000 acres were retired from the overall 10,500,000 base

The 1961 farmer participation gained a wide advantage over the former signups when 2,407,000 acres were diverted from the 9,-000,000 combined corn-grain sorghum acreage for a 27 per cent reduction in total feed grain acreage

What has happened to the 1,-500,000 fewer feed grain acres than recorded in the 1930's

State ASC officials said much of the reduction can be attributed to the practice of summer-fallow which now occupied cropland in western and Panhandle counties that formerly used the same acres for feed grains
