THE MACHINE AGE

THE Bureau of Internal Revenue with the sanction of congressional action soon will be computing your income tax return by machine

An intricate device has been set up in West Virginia where in due course data on your tax return and mine will be sent from the Omaha office—which is the one we are interested in, most of us—and soon the computer with cards and tape will discover who filed a return, who didn't, who's entitled to a refund and that queer duck who filed two claims for the same alleged refund By 1966, I read, every return of some 80 million people will be mechanically "figured," errors found, delinquents pointed out and, I reckon, eventually the Department of Justice also will be prosecuting by machinery.

HE DOESN'T WORRY

THE HON. Emmanuel Celler (D. N.Y.) well known for his willingness in looking under chips for bugs, will "investigate" the suspension of two daily newspapers in Los Angeles

Both the Examiner, which was a Hearst-owned paper, and the much younger Mirror, owned by the Los Angeles Times—one of the country's great journals—said last week they were quitting. High cost of production, continued union labor pressure, the growth of television advertising in competition with newspapers and the spread of suburban journals in metropolitan areas all worked to the disadvantage of two big newspapers.

The Hon. Celler, however, must think he needs a bit of publicity so he will set his committee to work to look for those bugs. The Hon. Celler is a blood brother of the Hon. Kefauver, he of the Daniel Boone complex, when it comes to investigations which the same will help them politically.

It is not known whether the Hon. Celler ever had to meet a payroll, newspaper plant or otherwise, but probably not. He gets his taxpayer-paid congressional salary right along without having to worry too much about where the money comes from, and you may be sure he wouldn't care, anyway.

NEW FRONTIER

PHIL Weaver, currently a congressman from the First District is opposed by Ralph Beerman, congressman from the Third District—the Third which was. Unfortunately two good Republicans are fighting each other for primary preferment. It ain't good.

Weaver seems to be the more aggressive. In a Lincoln speech he blasted Beerman as an "aginner" which, to some extent he is. And behind him stand thousands of Republicans who agree with him. Ralph is opposed to the New Frontier. He should be as a loyal, typical Nebraskan. Phil Weaver should be, too, but he seems not to be. Somebody may say he is playing both ends against the middle.

About all I know of Phil—he represents just now a district separate from Otoeans' district—is that he actually asked President Eisenhower to fire Ezra Taft Benson who, as the months unfold, is beginning to increase in stature. Another congressman, Doc Miller from Kimball, did the same thing. Politically he is dead. —J.H.S.

GREGG MCBRIDE'S COMMENT ON THE LATE Les Mann, as fine an athlete as ever went forth from Nebraska, has been sent to the Kick in Sun City They were contemporaries, in a way, the days of the MINK league and I'm sure the Kick will have some interesting comment on the Californian, who died in an auto accident last week

NEBRASKA City is proud of two of its boys Bill Phillips is the manager of the newest Hinky Dinky store in Lincoln.

And Bill Mickle is the co-owner of the Shenandoah drug store where he has worked for eight years.

Both are former News-Press little merchant carriers where each got his first business training.

THE News-Press has had a little carrier turnover recently and, admittedly, it's not easy to find lads with the spunk to LIKE to deliver newspapers when it is snowing and the mercury is at zero.

But carrying a newspaper, with its attendant duties such as collecting and keeping accounts accurately, is good business training

In fact, Jack Kennedy may have been a newspaper carrier in the early days If he wasn't, surely some member of the Kennedy clan was They have done every thing.

NEBRASKA City Savings and Loan Association is making plans to celebrate its 75th year sometime in 1962. Chet Thomas, the association president, recalled the other evening at the annual meeting that the 65th birthday observance was accompanied by about a foot of snow in March of 1952. This time the birthday is going to be delayed until warm weather.

Mr. Thomas, by the way, has been the president of Nebraska City Federal for 20 years. His savings and loan experience goes back 42 years, the first half of it in Topeka, Kansas.

Watching birds is like a safari

By HARRY FERGUSON

LONDON (UPI)—The last will and testament has been drawn. The hangman has tested the noose. There is no possibility of a stay of execution Your correspondent is going bird watching

All excuses have been exhausted in declining repeated invitations from a British friend who has neatly settled the life after death problem for all of us Bird watchers will go to heaven Everybody else will go to hell. To him and millions of other Englishmen bird watching is not a sport It is a religion

Perhaps you assume that British bird watchers merely take a walk and look at birds Perish the thought You need as much equipment and preparation as you do for a safari into Central Africa

Waterproof boots, field glasses with a minimum magnification of at least six times, waterproof trousers and jacket, a large notebook, six pencils and a knife to keep them sharpened, a canteen, a food pouch, a tape recorder to get the songs and cries of birds, and an alarm clock to make certain you are up with the birds at 5 a.m.

In the line of duty your correspondent paid 35 cents for a book called "Bird Watching for Beginners" by Bruce Campbell, who has written the definitive work on the subject. It was a traumatic experience, because the opening pages gave a preview of the horrors to come

"In search of birds I have driven, flown, cycled, rowed and walked many thousands of miles I have climbed hundreds of feet up rocks and trees and fallen down quite a few I have swum a good many rivers at various times I have been chased by a bull, by horses, by wild goats and often by wild men, farmers who resented my presence

"I have been pecked and scratched by birds of all sizes from blue tits to peregrine falcons, and I have been hit tremendous buffets by a tawny owl

"I have been up all night at lighthouses and have slept in a cave 3,000 feet high in the Grampain Mountains I have been out in weather of all kinds and have been cold, wet or steaming hot times without number"

That almost canceled the whole thing, but then from far away there was the faint tolling of the bells of hell summoning all non-bird watchers to eternal damnation in an overheated room Courage! Onward and upward! Excelsior!

CAPITOL CORNER

by Congressman GLENN CUNNINGHAM

Washington, D C (Special) — A new Speaker of the House of Representatives is now at the helm - John W McCormack of Massachusetts, a 70-year-old veteran of House legislative battles for the past 33 years McCormack is known as a vigorous partisan fighter, as he had to be in his post of majority floor leader I believe he will carry on in the best traditions of the Speakership, however, and be fair and just in his rulings as Speaker Partisanship aside, he is well known as a man who keeps his word

Following the prayer on opening day by the House Chaplain, all Congressmen remained standing for a minute of silent prayer in memory of the late Speaker Rayburn

The man chosen to be America's first astronaut to orbit the earth—the Marines' John Glenn -- lives a few blocks from our home here. One of his children went to the same school that Glenn Jr attended last year

The most controversial legislation before Congress this year will likely be the issue of allowing more foreign-made imports into this country American jobs are at stake, whenever we allow more imports of cheaper foreign goods.

Congress will be asked to consider legislation which would allow more imports but the specific bill has not come before us yet Proponents and opponents are split across party lines and regions.

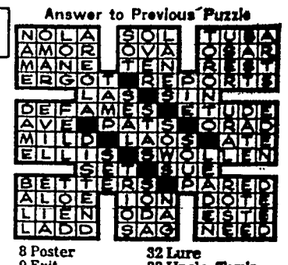

A record number of tourists are expected to visit Washington, D C. this year It is estimated that 7½ million school children, families and other tourists will troop through the Capitol, White House, Lincoln Memorial and other attractions

One high spot on most everyone's tour is the Smithsonian Institution There are so many fascinating items on display, recording America's history, that if you spent just 30 seconds looking at each item, it would take you 44 years to see everything!

QUICK LIFT!

The buck ends here ....

By Ivan D.E.B.

My younger brother, Dennis, who visited with us last summer, and helped paint our house, detasseled corn, pitched bales, worked at Ocoma Foods and bought a motorcycle, will enter college this month to major in accounting.

He says he heard Morton House advertised on "one of LA's top radio shows" The advertisement claimed Morton House made Nebraska City and Otoe county famous for its beans. Some people are just learning there is a Knoll's Country store, he added.

Which reminds me, a certain radio news broadcast might appeal to its listeners more if the advertiser were changed. The advertisement which goes along with the noon news gives advice about the best rat poison you can buy and rats this and rats that. Pass the hamburgers, Ma.

After too many years of talking and no action, I am finally starting to get into amateur ham radio. Learning the International Morse code is not hard, but it takes patience and practice.

Our eight-year-old daughter, Denise, has been checking my dits and dahs with a book. After this had gone along a few times over two or three days, she walked up to the key and accurately "pounded brass" on a half dozen letters

Invitations have gone out by Jaycee Week chairmen Jim Rhea and Bob Toler to all ex-Jaycees for a night of hospitality, January 23, at the Elks club.

If you were a member of the Jaycees at one time, and you didn't get an invitation, the reason is only because the co-chairmen were unable to get names of everyone. But, you are very much invited, they said.

My new neighbor will be State Trooper and Mrs Harold LeGrande. They will build a new home south of our place. I've advised Officer LeGrande that his lot is about six feet narrower than it says on the deed, because I took about that much more space when I planted Kentucky blue grass and podner, ah aim to claim squatter's rights.'

Arnold Gebers, former Nebraska City insurance man, has been promoted to agency manager of Cass county Farm Bureau.

The Gebers family has moved to Cass county. Arnold served as Farm Bureau agent in the eastern half of the county, according to Jack Noell, agency manager at Syracuse.

Bowen hopes to equalize taxes

LINCOLN (UPI) — State Sen Kenneth L. Bowen of Red Cloud filed with the secretary of state Wednesday as a candidate for reelection to his unicameral post in the 32nd District.

Bowen, a real estate broker, is seeking his third consecutive term in the legislature. He served as chairman of the government and military affairs committee and as a member of the education and labor committee during the 1961 session.

Bowen said in a prepared statement that in seeking his third term, his objectives will be in the fields of education, equalized taxation, and state and local government.

He said Nebraska must meet proper educational standards through compromise and co-operation. Mill levies must be adjusted to insure all districts the same advantages, he said.

As chairman of the legislative tax study, Bowen said he supports equalising the tax load and encouraging agriculture and industry advancement in Nebraska.

He said he also believes in a four year term for the governor in order to allow ample time to set up and execute a constructive program.
