The buzzer system in the county commissioners' office in the courthouse has been repaired once again, enabling employes in the county clerk's office to "buzz" the commissioners' room to answer a telephone call.

Otoe county court has a new telephone, the type that may be used as a hand piece or a button and speaker system permitting county court employes to converse over the line without lifting the receiver.

I've got the best one at home It's one of those "tweeters" and since I can't hear it when it "tweets" during my tweeping hours at night, I have renamed it to "twilent twelephone tweeter."

Up on the north 40

The wind howled, rattled the windows and shook the trees up on the north 40 a week ago, but everything withstood the gale Not so, north of the armory where the Jaycees have constructed a windbreak for ice skaters. The wind broke it!

Methods of instruction of students in schools has changed

Classes are taught over what is called Educational Television, actual telecasts from the University on various subjects

Such classes are conducted daily in Nebraska City's schools

And when the man in space project was under way, students at Sixth Street school spent much of their classroom time in front of TV sets watching history being made

Jack Eads, the postal clerk who was pictured in a recent issue of the News-Press with the "Man in Space" four cent postage stamps, says he rated better than the space pilot, Lt Col John Glenn because the News-Press picture of Eads was much larger than the picture printed of Glenn.

Eads' only question was whether he would be going up or down.

How to control grease fire

What's the first thing to do when a pan of hot fat on your range catches fire? What shouldn't you do?

"Never throw water on it, water only makes a grease fire worse," states Ethel Diedricksen, University of Nebraska Extension food and nutrition specialist "Never use flour, it will explode. Then, what can you do?

"The best thing to do is to smother the grease fire by dropping a tight lid or cover on the pan Another quick remedy is to sprinkle baking soda or salt over the fat.

"Grease fires are caused by the heavy fumes of the fat rolling down the outside of the pan. These fumes ignite when they contact the burner flames," explains the specialist. "To prevent grease fires, control the cooking temperature and do not leave a pan containing fat unattended while heating."

A young Yugoslav refugee who recently arrived in this country told reporters in Chicago

"The people of Yugoslavia laugh when the United States gives money to Tito, for everyone knows he takes his share first so he can live high and travel widely. When people in Yugoslavia learned that the Americans were sending jets, the Communists made more fun of Americans because they know how their system works — they drain you of everything they can and then they use it against you That is what will happen to the United States "
