The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room

"I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all men to myself." (John 12:32, RSV.)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for drawing so many souls to Christ through the centuries. Consecrate us to carry Thy message to others and reach them where they are. In this faith we would labor, in our Savior's name. Amen.

CUT EXPENSES, TOO

AS Senator Karl Mundt said following the President's talk on taxation et cetery, had he spent 30 seconds to say he would recommend a $5 million-dollar cut in expenditures, which would include some of the Do Gooding he advocates, the economy would have been helped immediately, and to a greater extent than though a cut in income taxes were to be granted.

The trouble with the New Frontier, of which the President is the High Priest, it thinks it is possible to eat the cake and have it, too. It just won't pan out that way. There would be no use in cutting taxes without a corresponding decrease in national spending.

It isn't the tax bill which worries. It is the increasing cost of government including the New Frontier's building up power through, for instance, putting 50,000 new employes on the federal payroll, every week.

A tax cut would be appreciated, of course, but until the bill of expense is reduced, it wouldn't do a penny's worth of good to the country.

SPEAKING OF THE WEATHER

IT was 116 degrees Fahrenheit in Needles and Blythe, Cal. the other day That same day it was 39 at Reno, Nev.

It was 114 in Sun City, Ariz. a couple of years ago when we were called there to take possession of some property. The air conditioner was started at 10 a.m. and automatically went off at 4 a.m. next day. A lot of folks who see that temperature in the tabulations are a bit scared. They needn't be. It isn't half so uncomfortable as our Nebraska "corn weather," — 90 in the shade, humidity 90 The humidity in Sun City with the exception of one evening when it rained a bit was from 10 to 12 per cent.

All you need do is not to be so foolish as to walk around in the sun without a hat of some kind If you play golf, as many do, you'd better take in a lot of liquid with a bit of salt. Perspiration sometimes fails — then get out of the sun.

We talk a lot about the weather. Usually it is because we have nothing else to discuss. So that's what I did above — althongh it is futile stuff. Nobody does anything about it. Let's talk about Kennedy.

SEWAGE PLANT NEXT

I LOOKED at the record just for the heck of it and discovered that "post card vote" for the improved water system five years ago, which brought us national acclaim the other evening, was almost unanimous. I was surprised. The "no" vote was so derned small in an avalanche of "yes" votes that it hardly was worth counting. I suspect we Status Quo boys decided since it wasn't digging our pocket nerves directly we'd either say "yes" or not vote at all.

One wonders, though, had the question been put up to a general election instead of being handled through the revenue bond channel how we would have come out. Most likely, some say, we would still be sucking in mud and banana peelings and watermelon rinds from the Omaha garbage disposal.

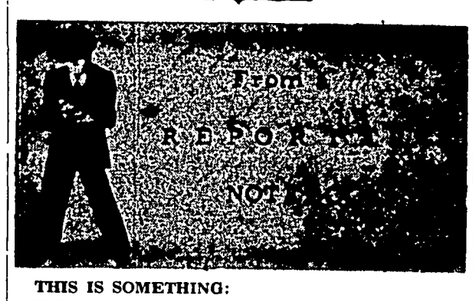

But let's forget it. There was some outcry about the overhead storage but that died down, too. Up to the hour of going to press the big tank with its flicking red light still is there. Nobody has dynamited it. Falls City is building one with a million-gallon capacity. That "storage lake" thing just didn't work at all.

Ted Filipi of the State Board of Health told us at the award dinner that no sewage is going into the river ABOVE Nebraska City!

We'd better put another feather in our communal cap and get busy with our own plans before somebody steps down hard on our municipal fingers. It is high time we quit dumping offal into the Big Mo.; in fact I'm surprised we haven't been getting a genuine blown-in-the-bottle ultimatum.

Most likely when the disposal plant gets into operation and we have to pay for it through the imposition of sewage fees there'll be some repercussions but it just won't do any good to complain. We've been getting by free-gratis-fer-nuthin for years. Fees are assessed all over the land these days and in consequence a lot of nasty, health-destroying menaces have been dispensed with.

LOW cost housing for low-income families in the 62 year and up age bracket is being seriously considered in Nebraska City

A group of Citians was told the story the other day by a man from the Chicago office of the Public Housing Authority Other communities have known about this federal program for years, because it has been the law of the land since 1956. In 1961 a further federal subsidy was added.

ONE of the outstanding examples of low-cost housing for low income retired people is in Grand Island and Max Katz, the man who explained the program here advised Nebraska Citians to go out there and see it

The Grand Island unit is operated by a county-backed authority because the housing is outside the city of Grand Island Dick Speits is the manager — the only unpaid housing authority executive in the United States, said Mr Katz

FEDERAL officials know that there is a demand for housing for senior citizens in the $35 to $45 per month (utilities and heat included) bracket. Mr Katz figured that if Nebraska City decides to go into this form of housing, we should plan on an initial installation of 50 units

It was suggested that the Nebraska City layout be a garden apartment, but if ground is not available "high lift" apartment housing can be built, with elevator service The garden type is preferred, however

As for location, it should be near a business section and churches.

Some men seem to have acquired a large vocabulary by marrying it.

WASHINGTON, D C —Subways which operate between the Senate office buildings and the Capitol are used 10 hours a day and transport up to 139,000 persons each day.

Sounds fantastic, but according to one of the operators, there are many people including visitors, elected representatives and government employes using the subway cars.

The nation's Capitol has eight of the cars operating between buildings making a total of 2,080 round trips daily.

Our family visited Sen Roman Hruska at his office in the Senate office building for a few moments Busy as he was, courtesy was extended to visiting Nebraskans Also helping make Nebraskans welcome, was Senator Hruska's right hand man, Bob Kulak, administrative assistant

Senator Hruska also took us to the visitor's gallery in the Capitol where we watched the Senate in action Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) was on the floor giving his opinion of a nuclear test ban

-:- -:- -:-

The man at the door of the gallery took our package from us explaining that neither cameras nor large packages are permitted in the gallery.

-:- -:- -:-

We were treated with courtesy by all in the buildings, an item which certainly makes a visitor feel welcome We also walked the famous steps to the capitol building and watched as an Air Force crew assembled a portable stage for an evening band concert smack dab in front of the building

-:- -:- -:-

There is a great deal — historically speaking — to see in Washington, D C The Lincoln Memorial is a must as should be the Marine Corps Iwo Jima monument Crack drill squads put on quite a show on the grounds much to the pleasure of several thousand spectators

-:- -:- -:-

There's no place like home, though, no matter where a person travels, say most Nebraskans West — by gawd — Virginia, stomping grounds of the Bob Tolers, was by far the most scenic state we traveled A lot of the history of the country is in the east at Williamsburg, Jamestown and Yorktown, Virginia.

New York City has its high points, certainly well worth seeing I couldn't help but enjoy the big city because of the entertainment and newstands chock full of copies of daily newspapers and magazines Grand Central station drew interest from our family because of the hustle-bustle during rush hours and scores of lunch stands, shops and newstands

Another little item of interest there was the new Studebaker Avanti on display on a moving platform Quite a sporty car It attracted many "ahs" from passersby

Sneeze-free home opens in Topeka

TOPEKA (UPI) — A haven for allergy sufferers, the first "sneeze-free living" housing development, will be opened here next month

The 325-home Westport Development in southwest Topeka will offer electronic air cleaners as standard equipment in each house

A development company spokesman said the air cleaners would remove pollen and other airborne irritants by a process of electrically charging the particles.
