Tent dress new for hot weather

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Newest pitch in warm weather fashions: The tent dress.

This big - as - the - wide - open-spaces coverall looks a great deal like its namesake, with some refinements It showed in several collections from the Texas Fashion Creators Association, which today completed its 13th annual "Press Week" of fashion shows for visiting reporters.

The tent, as done by the firm of Donovan-Galvani, came in denim in a variety of colors—blue, gold, green, red and gray Sunny South Fashions, Inc, produced the tent in black and white striped mattress ticking with a red apple applique on each of the saddle - bag sized pockets Julie Clark of Dallas made it in a combination of dacron and cotton in blue, green and beige

The tent's characteristics Sleeveless, collarless, narrow and fitted through the shoulders, then graduated to almost a full circle of fabric at the hem The hems of some of the tents m the Clark collection measured 140 inches around

All have giant pockets and narrow belts optional if the wearer wants to rope and tie some of the tent in at the waist

Its advantages are its coolness especially when unbelted and the ease with which a woman can slip into it all of them button down the front Slip the tent over a pair of shorts and halter and you're ready to go to town

University freshmen meet with educators

Senior High Principal M. D. McKenney and Guidance Director Doris McGaffey met with Nebraska City freshmen students at the University Thursday.

Superintendent D. E. Nelsen said purpose of the meeting is to see how schools could have better prepared students for the University

He said educators learn from such conferences and incorporate ideas from year to year. As a rule, he added, Nebraska City's freshmen students are pretty much satisfied with college preparatory courses at Senior High.

Citians to have presidents' suite

When Harold and Maxine Fouts go to Kansas City Friday for the annual convention of the Midwest Feed Manufacturers Association Saturday through Tuesday, the Muehlebach Hotel will give them the presidential suite complimentary

Mr Fouts, president of G.E. Conkey Co., is winding up his year as president of the Midwest Feed Manufacturers Association. This is an association of the feed manufacturers (and the associate industries that supply the feed industry) in Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Texas.

Charles Harris of Burrus Feed Mill, Ft Worth, Texas, will be the new president.

About 500 feed manufacturers, associate members, and college men from the various land grant colleges are expected for the three-day convention.

Congressman Ralph Beermann from this district will be the keynote speaker at the convention Monday

The presidential suite is the one used so often by Harry Truman, and on several occasions by Dwight Eisenhower. Since Fouts is no piano player he won't be able to use Harry's piano which is in the living room of the suite, the Nebraska Citian said.

A woman walked into a Nebraska City shoe store, purchased a brand-spanking new pair of shoes, picked up her package and returned home only to find the store wrapped just one shoe.

A neighbor obliged on a trip downtown, told the clerk what had happened and picked up the other shoe. The gal got quite a start when she opened the shoe box and found a left shoe to match the left shoe she had.

Omitted from the last paragraph of happenings "up on the north 40" was the name of near neighbors, Louie and Helen Genoa, who have a brand-spanking new home bewixt CB&Q John Kroese and Lawman Harold LeGrande. I noticed the last couple of times that Louie is the fella who seems always to wash his car the day before it rains.

Ed Lyon has started begonia, tomato and pepper plants in the showroom annex at Clemmy Holmes Motor company and has had every good luck

Well, maybe it isn't just good luck, maybe the man just has a green thumb. Anyway, he sure has some fine looking plants I noticed the other evening that word has gotten around about his big tomato plant and folks stop by just to peek.

De Your Own Thinking

Dear Kathy: Since I first started dating, I have dreaded going to a restaurant with a boy a boy because it's such a problem to order. I'm never sure how much he wants to spend. When I order a sandwich, everyone else decides to just have ice cream and then I feel silly and greedy. —C.C.

Kathy

A date may be rugged, masculine and a real Prince Charming to you but boys suffer from self-consciousness and shyness too when they are just beginning to lead social life. Some fellows squirm inwardly when you force them to make your decision for you.

The boy would not have taken you to a restaurant unless he had the money to finance a snack. Be kind to his budget when you order but make up your own mind. Then, if you don't want to be differen, listen un'll the others make their choices before deciding on your order
