Rubber plant Romania goal

In the United States-Romanian trade talks now underway in Washington the Romanians have let it be known specifically that they are interested in buying a complete synthetic rubber plan and equipment for their petro-chemical industry

Less specific has been the interest of both sides in reaching further, more far reaching agreement on the political and cultural level including closer diplomatic relations

From the United States standpoint it is part of a continuing program to break down the once close knit structure of world communism and to take advantage of rising nationalism within the Soviet bloc expressing itself in increasing independence of Moscow

Eight years ago similar aid was extended to Poland after Wladislaw Gomulka's defiance of Khrushchev in 1956

Although some evidences of mounting Romanian dissatisfaction with Moscow's dictatorship were apparent as long as four years ago they have become the most obvious within the last year or so

Internally, the Romanians abolished the Russian language as required teaching in Romanian schools

Outwardly, the signs were even more visible

A year ago in June Romanian President Gheorghiu Dej was conspicuously absent from a Communist bloc summit meeting in East Berlin to discuss Soviet-Chinese differences

Romania restored diplomatic relations with Albania ostracized by the Soviet Union for its support of Red China

Romanian newspapers began publishing both sides of the dispute

In late April a Romanian Communist party statement in effect told both the Chinese and the Soviets to clean their houses and flatly declared for the independence of every Communist party and country to manage its own affairs

These were some of the evidences for which the United States waited before initiating moves which could place Romania in the same category as Poland and Yugoslavia and perhaps set off a chain reaction of negotiations with other among the satellites

Perhaps the greatest sign of Romanian independence of Moscow was its refusal to cooperate with COMECON the Moscow - sponsored organization which was to link Communist economies assigning to each those goods which they could produce the best and cheapest and which would have relegated Romania primarily to a position as supplier of raw materials

Romania is rich in oil, natural gas, coal, iron manganese, bauxite, salt wood and agricultural produce and she resists the status of backward country

Against Khrushchev's wishes she pressed ahead with the huge Galati steel mill part of which is being built with the aid of Western concerns Last year she signed with Yugoslavia an agreement for joint construction of an $800 million hydro - electric and navigation project at the Danube River's iron gate.

For this show of independence the United States now considering a reward

The buck ends here . . . .

During a four year hitch the Navy ... got used to bells ... and ... steaming ... of all kinds but the most feared aboard any Navy vessel ... the ... call

Fire can destroy a ship ... sound and fast fighting was a necessity

... the New Pro ... there were ... hose available and within close reach when ... broke out It was a damn good thing The fire could have been much worse

The smoke was so thick and heavy it was like inhaling burning paper from a trash ... It was a chuckle to say the least

The nicest sound was ... fire seen and moments later ... from people who ... know what to do

There is a bit of irony in the story and that comes from the thoughtfulness of F L Duffey, manager of Montgomery Ward and company in Nebraska City

Mr Duffey was in the job shop department ... before the fire was ...

He came to pick up ... materials and as ... by the mechanic he noticed ... door was not closed ... The thought passed as he was ... on

After he drove ... thought returned ... the News Press office ... about the pioneers ...

Eddie Gerber ... the hospital I always ... those cigars would ... him out of a life of luxury

Oh I left my ... and pal ... down by the ... side

And then there was the story of Bill Conley and Harley Rakes who went mushroom hunting They separated Bill returned, but Harley didn't

So, ole' Sheriffey Ralph Hall drove the river bottoms south of Nebraska City with his siren blaring away About 11 p m. Harley found his way to the siren and comfort of the auto.. soaked that he was from the rain

WHAT HAPPENED to the mushrooms?
