NFL drawing

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The National Football League will hold a drawing at Three Rivers Stadium today to determine which of the league's new franchises will get first choice in upcoming player drafts.

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers will be represented by principal owner Hugh Culverhouse, while general manager John Thompson will represent the Seattle Seahawks.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle will preside over the drawing, scheduled to precede the American Football Conference playoff game between the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Baltimore Colts.

The drawing will determine which team gets the first pick in the college draft and which gets first choice in the allocation of veterans.

Woman confesses an affair with JFK

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joan Lundberg Hitchcock says she had an affair with John F. Kennedy over a three-year period, but broke off the relationship before he became president because "there didn't seem to be much future in it."

Mrs. Hitchcock, 42, said her liaisons with Kennedy occurred infrequently "whenever he was in the area."

She added that she had no illusions about being the only "other woman" in Kennedy's life. "He was a very busy fellow," she said.

In interviews with the San Francisco Examiner and The Associated Press, she described Kennedy as "a wonderful guy and lot of fun." Mrs. Hitchcock, who worked in Sen. Barry Goldwater's 1964 Republican presidential campaign and recently ran unsuccessfully for a seat on the Board of Supervisors here, said they always talked politics.

Mrs. Hitchcock, married four times, said her four children know about the affair and "think it's fine to the kids he's just another one of my lovers — only he's got some prestige in the family."

"They were great shiny days," she said. "He was a man's man and a ladies' man and I don't think any of the publicity will damage his memory. My attitude about our relationship was that if it wasn't me it would be somebody else."

Another woman, Judith Campbell Exner, said at a recent news conference in that said she led a "close personal" relationship with Kennedy while he was in the White House.

Mrs. Hitchcock said she met Kennedy at a "saloon" in Santa Monica when he was a senator. "He was sitting next to the juke box and and I came over to play a song and we started talking," she said.

She said their relationship lasted three years. "Everyone knows that if you go with a gentleman that long you're not just shaking hands," she added.

Mrs Hitchcock said Kennedy was "no different than anybody else when they have a love affair going." She said he gave her presents, some of which she said she still has, but was "not a big spender."

She said Kennedy spoke often of his wife, Jackie, and always in a way that indicated "he respected her very much." She said Kennedy often asked her if she thought Jackie had lovers. Mrs. Hitchcock said she always responded, "No chance."

She said Mrs. Kennedy "knew a lot more than people thought she did and she went along because she was a real lady."

Kennedy, said Mrs. Hitchcock, "was very interested in how a person looked and went for very definite types. Usually, the women looked like the Kennedys. He liked to think he could determine a woman's intelligence by looking at her eyebrow structure and the way her eyes were spaced. He was very positive about the kind of women he liked."

For a while, Mrs. Hitchcock said, she was accepted as part of the family by actor Peter Lawford and his wife, Patricia, who was Kennedy's sister. But when the relationship became obvious "I was no longer allowed in the house."

Mrs. Hitchcock appeared hurt by the remarks of Kennedy intimates Kenneth P. O'Donnell and David Powers, who called lies stories about Kennedy's sex life.

"I knew Dave and Kenny," she said, claiming that when she bought their book, "Johnny, We Hardly Knew Ye," they autographed it, "To Joan — who remembers the golden days of JFK."

Wilbur Mills

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., says he has no idea when he will make up his mind about seeking another term in Congress.

"I have made no decision, and I don't know when I will make one," the 18-term congressmen said Friday in a telephone interview from his suburban Washington, D.C., home.

"I'm still waiting to see how things work out."

Mills, 66, added that he is in very good health and still enjoys his House duties.

He returned to Congress last spring following a stay in a Florida clinic for alcoholism. He lost the chairmanship of the House Ways and Means Committee in the fall of 1974 after his widely publicized friendship with Argentine stripper Fanne Foxe.

Swine school scheduled in Red Oak on January 6

A multi-count Swine Production School is scheduled for Tuesday, January 6, 1976 beginning at 9:30 a.m. in the Extension meeting room, Red Oak, according to Richard M. McClure, Fremont County Extension director. McClure comments that both morning and afternoon sessions will be held featuring State Extension swine production Specialists and area Extension Specialists as part of an effort to update farmers and agribusinessmen on swine production and management.

The program will feature Errol Petersen, southwest Iowa extension farm management specialist, discussing management concerns in swine production including costs of production, examining various production systems and size of hog operations; Emmett Stevermer, ISU extension swine production specialist, will discuss swine reproduction problems, and management practices to improve reproductive efficiency; Doyle Wolverton, southwest Iowa extension livestock production specialist, will be discussing feeding hogs for profit, problems with swine rations, least-cost rations and life cycle feeding; Dr. Jim McKean, ISU extension veternarian, will discuss baby pig diseases, disease problems in the farrowing house and management practices to avoid disease problems. Two specialists will be scheduled for the morning session and two for the afternoon session to provide plenty of time for questions from the participants according to McClure. Coffee will be served in the morning and afternoon with a noon lunch break.

McClure reminds farmers and agribusinessmen that now is the time to update your information on swine management and nutrition, and reflect upon the management of your swine operation and strongly encourage interested persons to participate in the program and bring questions relating to swine production.

Swine Production School is an "equal opportunity" program as are all activities of the Cooperative extension Service, according to Richard McClure, County Extension Director. "Programs and activities of the Cooperative Extension Service are available to all potential clientelle without regard to race, color, creed or nation origin." Any person who feels discriminated against in an Extension Program should report within 180 days to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. (20250).

The news in brief

ATHENS (AP) — The assassination of Richard Welch, said to be the top Central Intelligence Agency operative in Greece, has jolted Americans who have been working to improve the sour U.S.-Greek relations of the past 18 months. Officials of both countries, however, for the time being regard Welch's murder as an isolated incident not likely to upset the process of rebuilding relations. As a precaution, top-ranking diplomats in the U.S. Embassy are receiving special police protection. A Greek government official said Welch, gunned down by three masked men as he returned from a Christmas party Tuesday night, appeared to have been "a very special target ... his killers apparently knew him, were aware of his movements." Welch, officially described as a U.S. Embassy official, has been identified in the Greek press and by sources in Washington as the Athens station chief of the CIA

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — An Argentine weekly magazine claims to have located former Nazi officer Walter Kutschmann, accused of executing 38 Polish Jews in 1941 The magazine, Gente, said a man professing to be Kutschmann is living with his American-born wife in the resort town of Miramar, 300 miles south of Buenos Aires. Two pictures accompanying the article show an elderly, bespectacled man walking on a Miramar street and driving a Mercedes-Benz auto. Information supplied to Argentine police by the Jewish documentation center in Vienna last June said Kutschmann and his men also were responsible for the deaths of an estimated 2,000 Jews in 1942.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has adopted new, tougher guidelines to curb misuse of funds in the $18 billion federal program to help local governments build waste treatment facilities. The Environmental Protection Agency said the new regulations stipulate that "only fair and reasonable profits" may be earned by contractors receiving EPA money to build the local waste projects. EPA chief Russell Train said, "$18 billion are currently authorized for the construction grants program, almost all of which is expended by contract. EPA is expected to adopt reasonable measures to minimize the potential for mixuse of any part of these funds."

Nudes to swim in YWCA pool

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The question before the judge is this: Can Attractive Nudists of both sexes swim nude in a YWCA pool?

Nude swimming parties were scheduled for the first and third Sundays of January, February and March. Charles Hesser, president and founder of the Attractive Nudists Club of America, said he paid the Cambridge YWCA $900 in advance for use of the pool.

Hesser said he has a signed contract with the Y for the parties. But after a magazine article about them appeared, the Y told him the contract had been violated.

The contract, said the Y, stipulated no advertising using the Y name without approval of Y officials.

Hesser, a bachelor and a lawyer, went to court for an injunction against Y interference with the planned skinny dipping. Superior Court Judge Ruth Abrams took the case under advisement Wednesday. There was no indication when she might issue a ruling.

Hester said the magazine article was publicity, not advertising. He said he did not pay for the article and had no control over what was said in it

Hesser said he did advertise in in underground newspapers and more than 1,000 persons of both sexes, including 50 couples, responded. He said no mention of the Y was made in the advertisements, which referred to a Post Office box.

Eileen M. Shaevel, counsel for the YWCA, said Hesser "misrepresented" himself when he signed the contract. She said the nudist group was "not as conservative as they first had thought."

The winners

Congratulations to Mrs Louis Stukenholtz, Mrs Carl Dalton and Dottie Farris on winning the scrip in the final Christmas giveaway sponsored by Nebraska City businesses.

Dottie is the daughter of Mr and Mrs Bob Farris. She is a graduate of NCHS and is now a student at the University. Judging by her smile, we think she has plenty of thoughts on what to do with her money.

We stopped in at Gangel's after the drawing and mentioned the scrip drawing to Mrs Faith Eyman, who was a grand prize winner before.

When News-Press reporter Jerry Wilson told us that Mrs Dalton was one of the winners, we both thought that was interesting. . . .Mrs Dalton was a former Gangel employe and is now at Gamboni Motors. About that time John Albrecht walked into the Gangel office. . . .remember?. . . .he won a couple of weeks ago? "Gotta work at Gangel's sooner or later to be a winner," we all agreed.

A boo-boo

Doreen Straw daughter of Mr and Mrs Ralph Straw, is not a freshman at the University. She's going to Midland college. Sorry about that Doreen. Brother, David, is a student at the University.

It was interesting to read in the N-P of the large number of NCHS students who will graduate at mid-term. Superintendent Jim Withee said there are 52 this year and the program appears to be working smoothly.

The 52 graduates may return in the spring to take part in the formal ceremony, but it isn't necessary; they've completed their requirements and for all practical purposes are through with high school.

Commencements at NCHS have improved in ceremony over the years. There are a number of speeches, but they are brief. The ceremony is held at Hayward park which is about as ideal a situation we could ask.

The back-up in case of weather is the high school gym. That's something else with 1,000 or more people packed in the bleachers and robed students on the floor. Usually when the ceremony is moved to the gym it means rainy weather and that means a muggy sticky evening in the gym.

Oh, well, no mind. When you're attending the ceremony for someone close to you, the room comfort doesn't make that much difference. It's the big event of the year and you wouldn't miss it for anything.

Dr. Rodney Koerber went up to three boys who were waiting in his office for shots.

The first boy was reading Popular Mechanics and when asked about his future, he said he wanted to be a mechanic, fix autos and fly airplanes

The second boy was reading Field and Stream and answered that he wanted to live in the mountains, hunt and fish or be a guide for sportsmen.

The third youngster was reading Playboy and when asked what he wanted to do when he grows up, said: I dunno. . . .I just want to grow up."

Harold Anderson, a graduate of NCHS, former sailor and now a law enforcement officer, is considering a career as a paramedic. Harold is assistant chief of police at Randolph.

He completed the Emergency Medical Technician course during a hitch in the Navy and put it to use the other day in a fatal traffic accident. He gave mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to a victim.

Harold completed a 20-hour EMT course recently and is signed up to start a 400 hour course to be a paramedic. He says if he passes the course and then continues his studies, he will probably move to California where "they need paramedics pretty badly."

Doesn't sound like we have much to worry about when people want to get into a field where their full-time job is taking care of the sick and injured.

Harold will make it if he wants to. We remember a number of years ago when he played as a lineman with the Pioneer football team in a game at Plattsmouth. Somehow Harold got the ball and scooted down a muddy field to score a touchdown for Nebraska City. You don't put down that kind of determination.

The candy recipe

Did you like the cherry mash candy recipe? Was it ummmmmmm. . . .good?

We had some fun with it too. Ray Tanking of Safeway and Norm Stehlik of Norman's IGA, had trouble keeping the cherry chip shelves full to accommodate shoppers

No. . . .I don't make candy. . . .or cook. . or bake. . .and I'm also a poor dish washer.

I just like to eat the goodies.

I don't care for turkey because it has so much white meat and the dark meat has so many "splinters" in it, eating a drumstick is almost like eating catfish.

No matter. . . .wherever I go on a holiday dinner, they serve turkey So I eat it anyway. . .there's always cranberries, you know.

I did make candy one time. . fudge just to show the Other Half that I could do it. And, she had to admit, it was pretty darn good. That's been about three or four candy thermometers ago

This year the heating element in the oven went on the blink about the middle of the morning on Christmas Thanks to good neighbors, the bird was put in the Fred Baker oven and Mrs B wore a path between homes checking on the roaster

The New Year

Our friend, Allan Holmes of Des Moines, one of the Company B guardsmen at Nebraska City who was called during WWI, considers the New Year another step into the great world of living. He says everyone should make a resolution for the New Year.

The advice from a "senior citizen" friend such as Mr Holmes must be heeded, puns and all.

"What's that pretty looking drink your mixing?" the customer asked.

"It's a Rum Dandy, made with sugar, milk and rum The sugar gives you pep and the milk give you energy "

"And the rum?" the customer asked.

"It gives you dandy ideas about what to do with all the pep and energy."

We resolve:

— To take the Queen Bee on a motorcycle trip on the BMW .to Sioux City to see No. 2 daughter at Morningside college

— To put together that craft item the family got for me last Christmas

— To do the grocery shopping at least once dur .g the year

— To go horseback riding with Dan Hill in the Thurman hills

— To develop a hobby. . . .something besides watching football games on TV.

— To tell the truth at least once a year, in The Buck Ends Here.

The holiday had a double meaning at our house. Millie and I observed our 25th wedding anniversary. We had a quiet little family dinner. The younger kids surprised me. they celebrated, too. . . .they ordered steaks instead of the usual hamburgers and french fries.

I was going to put on my "wedding suit" which at the time was a U.S. Navy clothing issue, but Ree Miyoshi borrowed the uniform for "South Pacific" at the high school, took one look at me and suggested I not try it. I think she was trying to tell me something. (Darn kids nowadays have a habit of spitting out the brutal truth).

Have a happy New Year holiday at your home.
